📸 Screen Monitor Tool — User Guide

🌟 Overview

This tool automatically captures screenshots of your screen at regular intervals and saves them locally.

It is designed for:

- Productivity tracking
- Personal activity logging
- System monitoring (with consent)

🚀 Features

- 📸 Automatic screenshot capture
- ⏱️ Configurable time interval
- 📁 Organized folder storage
- 🖥️ Runs continuously in background
- 💾 Saves images with timestamps

📥 Getting Started

1. Install Requirements

pip install pyautogui

2. Run the Script

python your_file_name.py

⚙️ How It Works

- On start, the tool creates a folder like:

Screenshots_20260327_143210

- Every 60 seconds, it:
    - Takes a screenshot
    - Saves it with timestamp

Example:

screenshot_2026-03-27_14-32-10.png

🎯 Customization

⏱️ Change Screenshot Interval

Modify this line:

interval = 60

Examples:

- 30 → every 30 seconds
- 300 → every 5 minutes

📁 Change Save Location

You can replace:

os.makedirs(folder_name, exist_ok=True)

with a custom path:

folder_name = "C:\\MyScreenshots"

⛔ How to Stop

Press:

CTRL + C

✓ Monitoring will stop safely

⚠️ Important Notes (Very Important)

- This tool captures everything visible on screen
- Screenshots may include:
  - Passwords
  - Personal chats
  - Sensitive data

👉 Use responsibly

🛡️ Ethical Use Guidelines

This tool must only be used:

✅ On your own system
✅ With full user consent
✅ For learning or monitoring purposes

❌ Do NOT use for:

- Spying
- Unauthorized surveillance
- Tracking others secretly

🛠 Troubleshooting

❌ Screenshot not working

- Make sure display is active
- Run script with proper permissions

❌ Black images

- Happens on some systems (GPU issues)
- Try running as administrator

🎯 Use Cases

- Productivity tracking
- Study/work monitoring
- Debugging UI issues
- Cybersecurity learning (behavior logging)

📝 Final Note

This tool quietly watches the screen...

Not to invade — but to observe patterns, capture moments, and understand behavior over time.

Use it with awareness, and it becomes powerful.
Use it carelessly, and it crosses a line.
